

Two NHS Students Recognized by College Board

Luis Gallego and Tatum Knowles, both juniors at Niceville High School, were recently invited by the College Board to participate in the National Hispanic Recognition Program (NHRP). They both scored in the top 2.5% on the October 2017 PSAT among all Hispanic and Latino test-takers in our region.

Every year, the NHRP recognizes about 5,000 of the 250,000 Hispanic/Latino juniors who take the PSAT. The College Board's NHRP program is an academic honor that can be included on college applications. Colleges may use this program to identify academically exceptional Hispanic/Latino students. Luis and Tatum are both enrolled in Advanced Placement and University of Cambridge AICE courses at NHS.
